Arts, Race and Social Justice:
A Conversation with Sylvia Waters, Renee Robinson and Walter Belcher
Presented by The Boeing Company
Through Monday February 28 (recorded presentation)

FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE

February 14, 2022 (Mesa, AZ) Mesa Arts Center is excited to announce Arts, Race and Social Justice: A Conversation with Sylvia Waters, Renee Robinson and Walter Belcher.

The talk explores how race and social justice have influenced the arts. Walter Belcher (Singer, Actor, Director, Social Justice Advocate) will lead Sylvia Waters (Artistic Director Emerita, Alley II) and Renee Robinson (Alvin Ailey Dance Instructor) in conversation about the impact, challenges and personal experiences they have had in the arts in relation to race and social justice. Giving them a chance to openly discuss the impact Alvin Ailey American Dance Theater has had and examining the question: How can we use the power of art to promote greater inclusivity, representation and healing in America?

The recorded presentation will be available for viewing on Mesa Arts Center's website through Monday, February 28. To view the presentation

About Alvin Ailey American Dance Theater

Celebrating over 60 years of unparalleled artistry, this performing arts community plays a crucial social role, using the beauty and humanity of the African American heritage and other cultures to unite people of all races, ages and backgrounds. Alvin Ailey American Dance Theater never fails to remind us of the power of dance to bring people together.

ABOUT SYLIVA WATERS

Sylvia Waters began her dance studies in junior high and earned her Bachelor of Science in Dance from The Juilliard School. As a professional dancer, she toured in the European company of Black Nativity, as well as in Donald McKayle's Black New World. She also worked with Maurice Béjart's company in Brussels and at the Summer Olympics in Mexico City. As a member of Alvin Ailey American Dance Theater, Ms. Waters toured the globe as a principal dancer before shifting her focus to Ailey II when Alvin Ailey chose her to become the artistic director. She is the recipient of honorary doctorates from the State University of New York at Oswego and The Juilliard School. She has received a "Bessie" Award, the Legacy Award as part of the 20th Annual IABD Festival, Syracuse University's Women of Distinction Award, and the prestigious Dance Magazine Award. Ms. Waters served on panels including the National Endowment for the Arts, the New York State Council on the Arts, the Department of Cultural Affairs, and the Princess Grace Awards. Currently, she leads The Ailey Legacy Residency, a lecture, technique, and repertory program for college-level students that looks definitively into the history and creative heritage of Alvin Ailey. She is also a consultant to the Ailey Archives.

ABOUT RENEE ROBINSON

Renee Robinson (Washington, D.C.) began her training in classical ballet at the Jones-Haywood School of Ballet. She was the recipient of two Ford Foundation scholarships to the School of American Ballet and was awarded full scholarships to the Dance Theatre of Harlem School and The Ailey School, where she danced as a member of Ailey II. Ms. Robinson was a member of Alvin Ailey American Dance Theater from 1981 to 2012, during which time she performed principal roles in several of Mr. Ailey's ballets including Revelations, Cry, Memoria, Blues Suite, and others. She danced in works choreographed by renowned choreographers such as Robert Battle, Judith Jamison, Lar Lubovitch, Ulysses Dove, Talley Beatty, Garth Fagan, Kyle Abraham, Ronald K. Brown, Elisa Monte, and Matthew Rushing.

Ms. Robinson performed at the White House State Dinner in 2003 in honor of the President of Kenya, Mwai Kibaki, and at the White House Dance Series in 2010. Recently, Ms. Robinson was honored with the prestigious Dance Magazine Award. She is a master teaching artist with Ailey Arts in Education and is a faculty member at Yale University teaching under the Dance Studies Curriculum.
