Mesa Arts Center to begin accepting applications for The Collective, a certificate program in creative leadership, Oct. 1, 2021

Deadline to apply: Nov. 1, 2021

September 28, 2021 (Mesa, AZ) – Mesa Arts Center's Creative Catalysts initiative will accept applications to The Collective, a certificate program in creative leadership, October 1 through November 1, 2021. The Collective is a 12-week experiential program that builds leadership skills through creative thinking and practices. In the interactive, hands-on program, up to 24 participants will grow their leadership prowess through practicing collaboration, embracing and learning from failure, applying innovative thinking and improving mindfulness.

Now in its fourth year, The Collective has graduated 47 creative leaders from a variety of industries and backgrounds. The goal is to highlight the importance of creativity across industries. Conversations surrounding creativity in the business sector are more relevant than ever as we manage and reflect on the unprecedented challenges of the past 2 years. Creativity has been the champion of this challenging time and it is the businesses and employees who can creatively adapt that will not only overcome these obstacles but grow and thrive in the aftermath of them.

Objectives of the program include providing participants with leadership opportunities experienced through a creative lens; offering personal growth opportunities; creating a network of peers to include collaborators and leaders from diverse sectors; and equipping participants with an enhanced skill set and tools to design, implement and sustain effective community development.

"Creative thinking, problem-solving and comfort with risk and experimentation are essential skills for leaders. Yet there are limited opportunities to develop those muscles and to explore creative tools that enhance success and build organizational culture. The Collective is just such an opportunity." said Cindy Ornstein, Executive Director of Mesa Arts Center and Director of Arts and Culture for the City of Mesa.

The Creative Catalysts initiative is supported by CORE Construction.
